'ANVIL.'

To the editor of the Alexandria Gazette: I have just read the very folsome editorial remarks of the editor of the Virginia Sentinel, published in that paper of the 22d inst., in behalt of his cousin "Extra Billy," and in reply to some remarks in the Richmond Enquirer, upon the course of his cousin, in which the editor of the Sentinel epeaks of him as "a Democrat, who has long stood as one of the party's proudest, most bonored, and most zealous, and gifted leaders."-Now, I ask the editor of the Sentinel, to say whether he does not know, that his cousin "Extra Billy" did use his utmost efforts in 1855, to bring defeat upon the Democratic party of this State, by his opposition to the party of this State, by the opposition to the er be does not know or believe that his couen "Extra." did write a letter to a Know-Nothing meeting in Warrenton, in which he professed to be with them soul and body or in feeling; if he does not know of the writing of that letter, I will inform him, that a prominent Know-Nothing voluntarily told me that he was at the meeting when the letter was read; -and I will further ask the editor, if he never heard that a party of Know-Nuthings went to his cousin "Extra's" house to initiate bim in their order, and was prerented by 'company at his cousins;' and whether he does not know or believe, that his cousin was publicly asked at Brentsville, whether he would accept the nomination for Gerernor from the Know-Nothings against the Democratic candidate for that office, and he retilied. "that it depends upon circumstances" Does he not know that in 1855. his cousin only received sixty-six votes out of nearly five hundred Democratic votes cast in this town and county-and in conclusion will ask bim, if under these circumstances, he has not been guilty of gross misrepresentation, in saying that his cousin has long stood as one of the "most zealous and gifted leaders" of the Democratic party.

The receipts have been quite light, while the demand has been good, but in consequence of the small stocks on hand, the transactions were limited. Prices have been unchanged, and the last sales were reported at $5 50@$5.62\frac{1}{2} for Union street, $6.-25@$6.371 for Extra, and $7@$7.50 for Family, for which, however, there is a very moderate | Saturday, the 2d of October, to elect a Libraenquiry, and the only sales reported are to retail dealers. The mills in the upper country are doing but a light business owing to the low stage of the water in the streams.

WHEAT .- The receipts of Wheat for the week show a falling off as compared with the previous week. The quality has been fair, but there is a marked scarcity of prime white or red Wheat, and our quotations are only for lower grades. The market has been inactive, and prices at the close, indicated a declining tendency. There were sales reported on 'Change yesterday of fair white at 126@128c; do. red 120 @125c.
